After discussing it with Tim, and thinking about the dilemma of meeting time, I have decided to postpone the meeting tomorrow until more discourse is had on meeting times. I will begin chatting online with those users who I've done so in the past with, and I request everyone take a minute after reading this message to reply with what days of the week you'd like a meeting, and a general late afternoon or evening preference. I would, ideally, like to have one meeting before the semester with more than 10 people, and finish up details and lay out plans for next semester.

I would particularly like to see a plan to get some more people involved, incoming freshmen, getting a table at the club fair in the fall, advertisement strategy, club activities, what people would like from the club in the future, and what they would like to contribute both in the short term (last couple weeks of the year, and any ideas for next semester).

As an aside, I would like to talk to the student technology advisory committee and see if we can't get a position on the club from the MUG, in order to help OIT better support our platform. This would directly assist our stated purposes in many ways, and wouldn't require a ludicrous amount of time on behalf of anyone in the club.

Also, I would like to set up a list of people who want to do any Mac gaming over the summer (and in the future) including what games you already have to play, and would like to play in the future with other Mac users (other people in general). I envision this eventually expanding into a full term use of the club, along with with our other stated goals.

Thanks for taking the time to read this, and if you have other points for a big meeting (esp. when you would like it) get back to me ASAP! I look forward to working with all of you more at the next meeting, and appreciate the efforts to date of everybody involved in starting the club!

Submitted for the Approval of Those Who Think Differently,
